~~Lone Star~~ Dietz, Head Coach

Lone Star Dietz assumed the leadership of the Boston Redskins last season after a series of triumphs as football coach unequalled by any of his contemporaries. His professional debut was a marked success, his eleven becoming one of the strongest in the National Professional Football League with signal wins over the Chicago Bears and New York Giants, winners of the respective division championships. The spectacular offensive play and sound defensive work of the Redskins under Dietz has made them one of the most dangerous aggregations to their opponents and keen favorites with football fandom which fully appreciates their presentation.

Dietz received his football education from the lone survivor of the pair of fathers of modern American football, Glenn S. Warner, when "Pop" pioneered historically as coach of the Carlisle Indians.

The other great parent referred to was, of course, the late Knute Rockne. Warner and Rockne developed systems of play that still vie in sternest competition for supremacy without any decided verdict yet settled.

Lone Star Dietz, of the Sioux tribe, was an All-American tackle at Carlisle in the days when the Indian team was the peak sensation of football. He played with the wizard Jim Thorpe at Carlisle and captained the team in his final year, 1911. Pop Warner saw in Dietz his prize pupil, and kept Lone Star with him after his graduation, as assistant.

The first successes of Dietz as football coach were made in 1915 when he was given the post at Washington State College in Pullman, Washington. He took a small squad hitherto badly disorganized and reconciled to constant defeats and produced a team that defeated the leading opponents of the west, winning the Pacific Coast championship the first year. In 1917 his team again won the Conference title.

When Washington abandoned football in 1918 because of the war Dietz became coach of the Mare Island Marines. Under his mentorship the team won the championship of the naval service stations. In 1921 he went to Purdue, a Big Ten school, and although he remained there only one year, he was responsible for turning out one of the best teams in the history of the university. His team lost only one game.

The following year found him coaching at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, where he was markedly successful for two years. From 1924 to 1927 Dietz coached the University of Wyoming, and in that period turned the chronic tail-ender of the Rocky Mountain Conference into a first division team each of the three years he was its coach. In 1927 Pop Warner again called upon Dietz to be his assistant, this time at Leland Stanford, where he remained a year. The following year he coached the Los Angeles Town Club, a famous coast pro team, and so successfully that his team went through the season without a defeat.

Then came his call to Haskell Institute where he coached the Indian team so effectively that, though he had no human material comparable to the old Carlisle players, the Haskell Indian footballers attained national repute.

Always a fighter and ever a builder, acknowledged a supreme strategist, Dietz never has led a failure on the gridiron. His teams always play smart, clean and vigorous football. He has the respect of rival coaches, and more often their praise.

THE BOSTON REDSKINS Player Histories - 1934

BATTLES, Clifford Franklyn --- All American pro halfback 1933. Darling of the Boston fans because of his work with the team the last two years. He came fresh from West Virginia Wesleyan University mildly trumpeted as a star running back, but too mildly, as he proved to be the best ball carrier in the National League and established a new all time ground gaining record last season. A fast, elusive, brainy player who appears to enjoy every moment of play. The rougher the opposition the wider his smile. Cliff was a Phi Beta Kappa student and was selected as a candidate for Rhodes Scholarship. A scholar and a gentleman. His age is 24, height 6 feet one, and he weighs 195.

BOSWELL, Ben---a tackle from Texas Christian, who comes from the University with the repute of being the true answer to a coach's dream. Grantland Rice named Ben one of the six best tackles in America two years ago. He is said to have the wariness, dash, speed and strength of an Andalusian bovine. Certainly he is built to scale with 6 ft. of height and weight of 245. Ben is 24.

COLLINS, Paul---couldn't help being called "Rip" though for no reason at all except that he is an end and tears into the opposing lines to do his stuff. Paul has made his mark with the Redskins the past two years and comes back as one of the greatest wingmen of the professional game. He is a quiet and serious young man and handsome. He is 25, height 6 feet one, and weighs 210. (Univ. of Pittsburgh, 1932)

CROW, Orien---a slashing sensation in his first year as center of the Redskins. A product of Haskell Institute and captain of its eleven two years ago and rated one of the greatest pivotmen who ever played for the Indians who have presented so many greats of the grid-iron. Orien is a Cherokee Indian. He was chosen All-Kansas center and received special mention in the Notre Dame Football Review of 1932. His age is 21, height 6 feet two, weight 220.

OLSSON, Lester "Swede"---Juggernaut from Georgia. Mighty tackle from Mercer Univ. of Macon, Georgia. Capable of playing any position in the line. Made first team in the S.I.A.A. and Dixie Conferences and All-State for 3 years. Last season All-Southern selection and given All-America mention. Chosen by Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech as the best tackle in the South, and selected on his All-American team. Is 24, weighs 220, stands 6 feet.

O'BRIEN, Gail---A steady, courageous player from the potent Univ. of Nebraska eleven of 1933. Outstanding lineman of the team on which he played a sensational game at tackle. Chosen for All-Star Missouri Valley team and All-Star Big Six Conference team. Played in the Shriners' football classic at San Francisco last New Year's Day with the West aggregation. Age 22, weight 218, height 6 feet.

MALONE, Charlie---an exceptional defensive end, excellent pass receiver and great down the field man on punts. Made Texas All-Conference team 1932. Starred in football, baseball, basketball and golf in college. Honorable mention on All-America grid teams. Shunted to St. Louis Gunners last year after brief stay with Chicago Bears. Made champions regret action by brilliant showing with powerful St. Louis eleven. Scintillated against National League clubs in exhibition games---Bears, Cardinals, Dodgers, Packers. Quinn Henry, Gunners' coach, said he was the best end he saw during the entire season of 1933.

ELLSTROM, Marvin "Swede"---Rugged fullback from Oklahoma City U. via St. Louis Gunners. Brilliant forward passer and fierce line-plunger. Age 24, height 6 feet, weight 210.

EDWARDS, Glen "Turk"---is the giant tackle from Washington State, who came to the Boston fold two years ago and walked away with all honors until he was crowned All-American pro tackle at the end of the season. He was even more spectacular last year and again won All-American honors. While at Washington State he was chosen All-American by the New York Sun and was named tackle on the All-Time Rose Bowl team. Glenn is 26, 6 feet two, and weighs 250.

HOKUF, Steve---powerful red-headed giant from Nebraska University who proved his all-round worth his first year under the big tent, playing brilliantly as an end and as a back. Prior to his advent with the Redskins he was considered the best athlete in Nebraska. Made letters in football, track, baseball and basketball. Was named All-Star Missouri Valley end 1931-1932, and played in the Shriner's game two years ago on New Year's Day. A wizard on receiving passes and a star in offence blocking and tackling. He is 24, his height is 6 ft. and he weighs 210.

VETERANS: Battles, Pinckert, Edwards, Collins, Hokuf, Crow, Johnson, Intrieri.

ALL-PROFESSIONAL PLAYERS: Turk Edwards, All-Pro tackle
Cliff Battles, All-Pro l.h.b.

JOHNSON, Lawrence---a giant Indian center and all-star lineman brought to the Hub a year ago by Lone Star Dietz. This member of the Menominee tribe is a gamester who is noted around the circuit for his aggressiveness. Is especially good in blocking in the line and is a great defensive player. His height and general ability serve to make him useful at any line berth from end to center. He is 26, his height is 6 feet 4, his weight 225.

ARENZ, Arnold---son of St. Louis who has the requisites to make good in the professional game. Crack fullback and captain of the St. Louis Univ. eleven of 1933. A powerful line-plunger and bone-crushing tackler. Recommended to the Redskins by Ray Gillespie of St. Louis Times-Star. Weighs 215, 6 feet 2, and is 24 years old.

RENTNER, Ernest "Pug"---One of the greatest names in football. Making his professional debut with the Redskins. Northwestern's great all-round backfield star named to a multitude of All-America elevens in 1931, '32. In 1931, gained 1551 yards, 648 from scrimmage. Against Minnesota ran 95 yards from kickoff for touchdown and in same contest ran back punt 80 yards for a touchdown. Coach at his Alma Mater in 1933. A superb blocker, great defensive player, ball-toter par excellence. Regarded as the passing genius needed by the Redskins. Weight 195, age 24, height 6 feet one.

SINKO, Steve---Mighty man from the small college category. Great tackle of Elmer Layden's Duquesne eleven of 1933, one of the best small college clubs. Considered by this former member of the "Four Horsemen" to have great potentialities for pro football. Named on Univ. of Pitt's All-Opponent team. Weight 230, age 23, height 6 feet 2½ inches.

WRIGHT, Ted---Wooded from the West to join the Redskins. Played in the backfield with the Washington Pros of Coast League in 1933. Gained fame at Texas State Teacher's College where he was the nation's high scorer in 1932, tallying 117 points. A great back who possesses all round qualifications being a star carrier, punter and passer. Excellent place kicker also. Weighs 190, is 6 feet tall, 21 years of age.

PINCKERT, Erny---Captain and sparkplug of the Redskins. A livewire leader ever on the go and recognized far and wide as the best blocking back in professional football. A bone-crushing tackler and alert pass defender. Likewise a capable ball-carrier. Super-star of the great Univ. of Southern California elevens of 1930, '31. One of the keenest minds in the game. In the off season a successful business man. Ambition to give Boston a championship eleven. Height 6 feet, weight 200, age 26.

INTRIERI, Marne---An experienced lineman bought from the Stapletons a year ago. A smart, steady workman familiar with the tricks of professional offence. Played at Loyola, Maryland, before joining the professional ranks. A good interfering guard. Weighs 215 pounds, age 25, height 5 feet 8 1/2 inches.

MCPHAIL, "Hank"---Crack fullback from little Xavier College in Cincinnati with one year at West Point. All-round athlete with flair for football, baseball and tennis. Excellent passer and good defensive back. Weight 230, height 6 feet 1, age 22.

SARBOE, Phil---Ace back of the powerful Washington State College eleven of 1933. A fine, aggressive type of player, possessed of a lithe physique. Considered by Coach Babe Hollingberry one of the best backs he has coached, and recommended to the Redskins by "Turk" Edwards, Boston's All-Pro tackle, who is himself an alumnus of Washington State. All the way from Tacoma. Weight 175, height 5 feet 11 inches, age 24.

BAUSCH, Frank---All-Missouri Valley center from the University of Kansas. A big, rugged lineman who can play a bang-up game at the pivot position. Out to displace youthful Orien Crow as the Redskin's regular center. Weight 210 pounds, age 24, height 6 feet 2 1/2 inches.

WALTON, Frank---An outstanding Eastern guard in the 1933 campaign while playing for the Univ. of Pitt. Can play either guard or tackle. Is fast and capable of leading interference because of his speed and blocking ability. Mentioned on nearly all "All" teams of 1933. With Bernard of Michigan the best lineman on the field in the Shriners' game at San Francisco, New Year's Day 1934. Weight 219, height 5 feet 11, age 23.

CONCANNON, Ernie---Former New York Univ. captain and star tackle. Propped at Waltham High, (Mass.) where he was a star under Jack Leary. A rugged, aggressive lineman, who is equally at home as a tackle or guard. Probably will play guard under the Dietz system. Six feet one, 220 pounds, 24 years of age.

TOSI, Flavio---Brilliant end of the Boston College eleven of 1933 and chosen for All-Eastern honors. A good pass receiver, hard-tackling defensive wingman and fast down under punts. Makes up for lack of weight with fighting qualities. Home is in Beverly, Mass. Six feet tall, 190 pounds, 23 years of age.

WYCOFF, Doug.---Veteran of the pro ranks having starred as full-back with the Stapletons, Cardinals and other National League clubs. First gained fame as fullback of the Georgia Tech eleven of 1926, '27. A seasoned, experienced back, familiar with all the tricks of professional play. Best known for defensive ability and forward passing skill. Weighs 225 pounds 5 feet 11 inches tall, 29 years of age.
