"Times" Charity Game Nets $105,368

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN

(Reprinted from the Los Angeles Times of September 14, 1947 with permission of the publishers.)

The third annual Times Charities, Inc., football game staged at Memorial Coliseum on the night of Sept. 5 between the Los Angeles Rams and the Washington Redskins resulted in a net return to the Los Angeles Times Boys Club of $105,368.17, it was announced yesterday.

The game, which drew a record pro exhibition football crowd of 80,910, came within less than $1,000 of the world's record for net charity contributions from a single sports event.

The highest known sports contribution to charity for one contest was the $106,345.24 gained by the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children from the San Francisco East-West grid game last New Year's Day.

This topped the previous mark set by the Times game in 1946 between the Rams and Redskins, which contributed $102,855.92 to the building and operating fund of the Times Boys Club located on North Broadway.

Second to the Times game in net charity contributions last year was the Philadelphia game between the Chicago Bears and the Philadelphia Eagles. This figure was $81,812.19.

Public Considered

The annual Chicago game between the college All-Stars and the champions of the National Football League resulted in a net profit to charity of $67,493.82 in 1946. No figure has been announced by the sponsor for this year's event, which was held on the night of August 22.

Figures on the recent Times game were announced jointly by Norman Chandler, president and publisher of the Los Angeles Times, and Phillip Chandler, president of Los Angeles Times Charities, Inc.

"We feel," said Mr. Norman Chandler, "that the public, by patronizing this game, is entitled to an accounting of the funds."

The gross gate receipts for the game a week ago last Friday were $227,240.11. Largest cut from this total went in government tax, which amounted to $38,640.22.

Teams Get Less

The second largest cut was taken by the Coliseum for rental, clean-up charges and payroll operating expenditures. This was $23,359.99.

The amount paid to the Coliseum was considerably larger than the flat fee paid each of the participating teams. Neither team was compensated to the full extent of its training expenses.

The Voice of the Redskins

For the sixth consecutive year, Harry Wismer, America's leading sportscaster, will be at the microphone to bring Redskin fans on-the-scene, play-by-play accounts of all home and road games on behalf of the American Oil Co., maker of Amoco Products.

Once again, as in 1947, Wismer not only will broadcast all of the Tribe's 12 National Football League games and two pre-season contests, but also will provide narration for those games that are telecast. (See page 48 for line-up of Amoco-Redskin Network.)

Only 35 years old, Wismer has risen to the top of his profession in a remarkably short time. He is managing director of three of America's largest radio stations, sports editor of the American Broadcasting System and announcer for many of the top sports events.

This husky, curly-haired, dynamic young man, born in Port Huron, Mich., started out to be an athlete. Eight-letter winner in football, baseball, basketball, track and tennis at St. John's Military Academy, he was headed for stardom at University of Florida, but broke his leg.

Transferring to Michigan State, the sidelined ex-athlete, yearning to keep close to sports, aired Spartans' sports over the college radio station. On Sundays, Wismer handled the public address system for Detroit Lions' games.

One day, a heavy fog eclipsed the playing field and Wismer moved down from his PA booth to the sidelines and "broadcast" a radio-like description to the fog-blinded fans in the stands. It was so good, he was hired to air the Lions' games the following season . . . and he was on his way.

Numerous honors have been heaped on him. Five times he has won the Sporting News Award as the nation's No. 1 sports commentator and for three consecutive years he has won the Washington Touch-down Club's trophy for the most outstanding sportscaster.

Wismer airs some 80 football games per year, including the Sugar Bowl and the World's Professional Championship; the National tennis singles and doubles; the National Golf Open and PGA; the Penn Relays; and numerous other sports spectacles.

He is married, has two children, and lives in Ypsilanti, Mich.

Redskin Movie

Produced and released under the sole supervision of the Redskins.

The Redskins can now be seen in action in the movies. A 16 mm. film short comprising spectacular scenes from the most memorable games that the Redskins have played since 1942 is available for bookings by clubs and other organizations. It is in full color and sound. Narration is by Harry Wismer. Its running time is 21½ minutes.

Most of the great stars—past and present—of the National Football League can be seen in action in the film.

Shown also are a dozen colorful scenes from between-the-halves shows. Featuring these scenes is the one showing "Santa Claus" leaping by a parachute at the Redskins-Yanks game last December.

Each team in the National League is featured in one or more games in the film. All told, 78 plays are shown, including the famous Statue of Liberty play Sammy Baugh and Wilbur Moore pulled against the Bears in 1943; Moore's spectacular man-on-a-trapeze tackle against the Packers in 1945; Sid Luckman's spectacular quarterback sneak in 1943; Jim Youel's bootleg play against the Eagles in '46; Steve Van Buren's touchdown run with a kickoff last season; and Baugh's 1000th pass completion against the Eagles last year.

For students of football, trap plays, end sweeps, off-tackle plunges, pile-drivers, cutbacks and all sorts of ground maneuvers are shown, as well as screen, hook, long and short passes.

A total of 284 points are scored in the 21½-minute film. The Redskins tally 187 of these points and their foes 97.

Organizations interested in booking the film should write to the Redskins' office, 739 Ninth St. N.W. They are requested to list the date, the time, the place where the film is to be shown and the anticipated attendance.

The Redskins' Band

Maybe, some years, you can prod a grudging admission from a Redskin fan that his team isn't, perhaps, the very best in the whole world, but you'll never get him to say the Redskin Marching Band isn't the "bes' ban' in the lan'."

It's composed of volunteers of all sizes and ages—printers, plumbers, sheet metal workers; mechanics, painters, electrical engineers; students, bookbinders, and, oh, yes, of course, even musicians. There are father-son, brother-brother, nephew-uncle combinations.

It all started back in '37. A few days before the second game, a milk company employes' band asked permission to parade at home games. For the rest of the season, these musical milkmen played to their hearts' content . . . and to the fans' delight.

Before the following season, Screen Star Corinne Griffith had written lyrics to "Hail to the Redskins!", Maestro Barnee Breeskin had written the music, the Redskins had rented Indian costumes . . . and the band played on!

It has been playing ever since. It has marched up Broadway at the head of 15,000 fans. It has represented Washington in the big annual Lions' Club parade in New York. And it has played alongside Waring, Whiteman and the Philharmonic in the Philadelphia Inquirer's Music Festival. It has entertained at games in Pittsburgh, Boston, Baltimore, Cleveland, Norfolk, Philadelphia and New York.

The organization is military-like. At the head is Chief Richard Viancour, former Navy bandleader. Each marching line is a unit, with a chief who is responsible for his unit's ability and discipline. The band's own arranger carefully times his scores to 90 seconds for time-outs. The band's own librarian has on file some 200 arrangements, ranging from "Hold That Tiger!" to "Poor Butterfly."

Wardrobe men, who care for the $20,000 worth of costumes, know their business so well that the bandsmen can file through one end of a box car in street clothes and out the other end in Indian get-up—all within 25 minutes!

The band's drum majors have diagrams of scores of maneuvers, man-by-man and step-by-step, and, in one rehearsal, can whip the band into any design from a shamrock to a Christmas tree.

The band has its own secretary, its own letterheads and its own esprit de corps. It rehearses once every week and last season, despite weather, illness, business demands and domestic problems, compiled an astounding attendance record of 96 percent!
