Admiral John E. Whelchel

Admiral John E. (Billick) Whelchel, who was named on February 5, 1949, to succeed Glen (Turk) Edwards as head coach of the Redskins, is rated by most observers as the greatest coach in the history of football at the United States Naval Academy.

The Admiral was head coach of the Middies in 1942 and 1943 and led them to two straight triumphs over Army—the last two victories Annapolis has scored in this ancient rivalry. His 1943 team lost only one game—to Notre Dame.

The new Redskins coach, who quarterbacked the Middies of 1916-17-18, has been a vital part of Navy football for more than 30 years. In addition to his two-year tenure as head coach, Admiral Whelchel served nine years at the Naval Academy as assistant under Navy Bill Ingram, Gil Dobie, Bob Folwell and Swede Larson. Even while away from the Academy, he not only kept close touch with Middle football but also coached battleship, cruiser and Navy Yard teams—and, indeed, even got together a team representing a destroyer, the first and only time anybody ever managed to corral enough playing talent from such a limited crew.

He is the first product of a hometown gridiron to ascend to the high position of head coach of a professional club. Admiral Whelchel was raised in Washington, educated in Washington public grade schools, played quarterback for a Washington high school and has maintained a residence in Washington throughout his Naval career.

Admiral Whelchel was born in Hogansville, Ga., on April 1, 1898. At the turn of the century, his parents moved to the Nation's Capital. His father—Jasper Esten Whelchel—practiced law in Washington for more than 30 years before his death. His mother—Louise Lula Whelchel—is still living in Washington.

Admiral Whelchel attended three different grade schools in Washington—the Johnson, Morgan and Cooke schools—before entering Western High School in 1912. He was a star quarterback at Western High for three seasons.

On August 18, 1916, he entered Annapolis. After three seasons of varsity quarterbacking, he graduated from Annapolis, under the wartime speed-up program, June 7, 1919.

Ever since, Admiral Whelchel's time has been divided between football and Naval assignments.

His Naval career saw him aboard the Louisville, Rochester, MacFarland, Texas, Hannibal, Florida, Idaho, McCall and—during the war against Japan—the USS San Francisco.

His coaching career saw him as assistant to Gil Dobie in the 1919 season; backfield coach under Bob Folwell for the seasons of 1920-24 and under Navy Bill Ingram in 1925-26. During various assignments with the Fleet from 1927 to 1940, Admiral Whelchel coached the Scouting Force team two years, the USS Florida eleven for two years, the USS Idaho squad four years, the Norfolk Navy Yard team three years, and the USS McCall two seasons.

He returned to the Academy in 1941 as director of athletics and found time and energy enough to also assist Head Coach Swede Larson that year. The following season Admiral Whelchel assumed the head coaching spot and held it for two campaigns until ordered to duty as chief of staff to the Commander Service Squadron, South Pacific.

He commanded the San Francisco during the assaults on Iwo Jima and Okinawa and won the Legion of Merit, a Gold Star in lieu of a second Legion of Merit, and a Bronze Star.

Admiral Whelchel is married and has three children—Mrs. Laurel Mikalevsky, wife of a Navy lieutenant; Louise, and John.

Redskin Program Now Magazine; to be Sold on Newsstands

Two new conveniences in connection with the sale of "The Redskin," official magazine for all Redskins games, have been instituted this season for the sake of all football fans . . . both for those who attend the games and for those who follow them on television and radio:

(1) "The Redskin," official 32-page magazine, will be placed on sale at all leading newsstands throughout the Metropolitan area prior to each home game. "The Redskin," of course, also will be on sale as usual at Griffith Stadium on the day of each game.

(2) Fans interested in having "The Redskin" delivered direct to the home can inquire about this service at the Redskins office, 739 Ninth St. N.W., or phone District 6140.

Want to be a Redskin?

Youngsters now can dress up just like Redskins on the day of the big game. The following items, all bearing the official Redskins insignia, are available at leading stores:

1. A complete football outfit, consisting of shoulder pads, helmet and football. There are two sizes: Junior and Varsity.
2. The official Redskins sweatshirt and jersey.
3. Miniature souvenir footballs, white or brown, ideal for autographs.
4. Official Redskins burgundy and gold shield, suitable for sewing on sweaters, jerseys or jackets.

Inquire at the Redskins' office, 739 Ninth St. N.W. Phone District 6140.

Hail to the Redskins!

This is the official song of the Redskins. Its lyrics were written by Corinne Griffith and the music by Barnee Breeskin. It is published by Leo Feist, Inc. Sheet music and recordings are available in all major music and radio stores.

HAIL TO THE REDSKINS, Hail Vic-to-ry,
Braves on the war-path, Fight for old D. C.
Scalp 'em, swamp 'em. We will take 'em big score.
Read em, weep 'em. Touch-down we want heap more.

Fight on. Fight on till you have won.
Sons of Wash-ing-ton (Rah! Rah! Rah!)
HAIL TO THE REDSKINS, Hail Vic-to-ry.
Braves on the war-path. Fight for old D. C.

Rosters of Redskins Foes

Since 1933, the National Football League actually has been two leagues—the Eastern League and the Western League. That was the year the East and West divisions were created with the winner of each circuit meeting in a playoff for the world championship.

Under the rules, each club must meet the other teams in its division twice each year on a home-and-home basis and then must play two of the Western teams in the West and two at home. Thus, the Redskins each year must play the Giants, Eagles, Bulldogs and Steelers both at home and away, and two of the Western clubs (Bears, Packers, Lions, Cardinals and Rams) at home and two away. This season the only team that the Redskins are not meeting in regular league play is the Detroit club.

Here are the partial rosters, featuring the more prominent players, of the other National Football League teams:

The Redskins Band

Maybe, some years, you can prod a grudging admission from a Redskins fan that his team isn't, perhaps, the very best in the whole world, but you'll never get him to say the Redskins Marching Band isn't the "bes' ban' in the lan'."

It's composed of volunteers of all sizes and ages—printers, plumbers, sheet metal workers; mechanics, painters, electrical engineers; students, bookbinders, and, oh, yes, of course, even musicians. There are father-son, brother-brother, nephew-uncle combinations.

It all started back in '37. A few days before the second game, a milk company employees' band asked permission to parade at home games. For the rest of the season, these musical milkmen played to their hearts' content . . . and to the fans' delight.

Before the following season, Screen Star Corinne Griffith had written lyrics to "Hail to the Redskins!", Maestro Barnee Breeskin had written the music, the Redskins had rented Indian costumes . . . and the band played on!

It has been playing ever since. It has marched up Broadway at the head of 15,000 fans. It has represented Washington in the big annual Lions' Club parade in New York. And it has played alongside Waring, Whiteman and the Philharmonic in the Philadelphia Inquirer's Music Festival. It has entertained at games in Pittsburgh, Boston, Baltimore, Cleveland, Norfolk, Philadelphia and New York.

The organization is military-like. At the head is Chief Richard Viancour, former Navy bandleader. Each marching line is a unit, with a chief who is responsible for his unit's ability and discipline. The band's own arranger carefully times his scores to 90 seconds for time-outs. The band's own librarian has on file some 200 arrangements, ranging from "Hold That Tiger!" to "Poor Butterfly."

Wardrobe men, who care for the $20,000 worth of costumes, know their business so well that the bandsmen can file through one end of a box car in street clothes and out the other end in Indian get-up—all within 25 minutes!

The band's drum majors have diagrams of scores of maneuvers, man-by-man and step-by-step, and, in one rehearsal, can whip the band into any design from a shamrock to a Christmas tree.

The band has its own secretary, its own letterheads and its own esprit de corps. It rehearses once every week and last season, despite weather, illness, business demands and domestic problems, compiled an astounding attendance record of 96 percent!

The Voice of the Redskins

For the seventh consecutive year, Harry Wismer, America's leading sportscaster, will be at the microphone to bring Redskin fans on-the-scene, play-by-play accounts of all home and road games on behalf of the American Oil Co., makers of Amoco Products.

Once again, as in 1948, Wismer not only will broadcast all of the Tribe's 12 National Football League games and two pre-season contests, but also will provide narration for those games that are telecast. (See page 48 for line-up of Amoco-Redskins Network.)

Only 36 years old, Wismer has risen to the top of his profession in a remarkably short time. He is sports editor of the American Broadcasting System and announcer for many of the top sports events.

This husky, curly-haired, dynamic young man, born in Port Huron, Mich., started out to be an athlete. Eight-letter winner in football, baseball, basketball, track and tennis at St. John's Military Academy, he was headed for stardom at University of Florida, but broke his leg.

Transferring to Michigan State, the sidelined ex-athlete, yearning to keep close to sports, aired Spartans' sports over the college radio station. On Sundays, Wismer handled the public address system for Detroit Lions' games.

One day, a heavy fog eclipsed the playing field and Wismer moved down from his PA booth to the sidelines and "broadcast" a radio-like description to the fog-blinded fans in the stands. It was so good, he was hired to air the Lions' games the following season . . . and he was on his way.

Numerous honors have been heaped on him. Six times he has won the Sporting News Award as the nation's No. 1 sports commentator and for four consecutive years he has won the Washington Touch-down Club's trophy for the most outstanding sportscaster.

Wismer airs some 30 football games per year, including the Sugar Bowl and the World's Professional Championship; the National tennis singles and doubles; the National Golf Open and PGA; the Penn Relays; and numerous other sports spectacles.

He is married, has two children, and lives in Ypsilanti, Mich.
